

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A fully integrated email system for a desktop computer with an associated palmtop computer is disclosed. The portable computer has an 5 email client for viewing incoming email messages and composing outgoing email messages. The personal computer has an email synchronization conduit that synchronizes email on the portable computer email client with email for the desktop computer system. The email synchronization conduit ensures that the email state on the portable computer system matches the 10 email state on the desktop personal computer system exactly. Thus, if an email message is deleted on the portable computer system then that email message will be deleted from the desktop personal computer system.
Similarly, if an email message is deleted on the desktop personal computer system then that email message will be deleted from the portable computer 15 system.